

About the Wine and Winery

Established in 2004, Signature Wines is a small winery located in Columbus, Ohio, and is one of the few commercial wineries in the United States that is woman owned and operated.

Kelly Harvey, Signature Wines' owner and winemaker, cuts a new niche in the local wine market by specializing in designing customized labels that are placed on the six different types of wines made and bottled at her winery. This makes each bottle of Signature Wine unique and memorable.

Companies can opt to design their own labels or Signature Wines can design the label for you. Signature Wines offers a variety of options to show your gratitude to your clients, co-workers, and employees.

Signature Wines produces its wines using high quality grapes from California. Each step of the wine making process is controlled at the Signature Wines winery in Columbus.

We adhere to the highest quality standards and gives special attention to even the most subtle details in the wine making process. There is no mass production because Signature Wines is willing to take the time necessary to create premium wines.

Signature Wines never requires a minimum order and there is no set-up charge for the customized label. In addition, Signature Wines offers a 10% discount on a case of wine with the same customized label on all 12 bottles.
